Wallflowers Another One In The Dark

We took 'em high, we took 'em straight up the hill,
They wanted it all, we gave 'em such a fill.
In their parades, we stole every thrill
And in their games, we made every kill.

We took them hard, we took them up against the wall.
In their loss, we never let them fall
In their flames, we sailed up to the moon
In their rains, we stayed dry like a fire would.

So the bottom of my fears
Is that the girl might just disappear,
That'll be the death of me,
The day she's just a memory.

Well she turned out the lights
When she opened the whites of my eyes
Another one in the dark
Broken all apart
Just another one in the dark.

When we rolled, rolled on like a big drum,
We went to the top, just above everyone,
They wanted to win, tie us up with a string, and steal everything.
We took 'em skin on skin, we laid 'em down in the ring.

So I swear, we're a pair,
Like loneliness and a prayer,
You know I might believe,
You may still need me.

Well, she turned out the lights
When she opened the whites of my eyes
Another one in the dark
Broken from the start
Just another one in the dark.

In their nights, we made out with a loud scream, but in their sleep, we howled inside every dream.
So if you're trying to break me,
come on why don't you shake me,
right out of my tree,
the one that you made me, me

Well, she sang out of tune,
When she shot down the moon,
As I saw my all freeze,
Down at my knees,

Where I was hit at the hip,
Between the cup and the lip,
As I was struck down under
With lightning and thunder,

As she cut all the strings
That I'd tied to her wings
Leaving me in the dark,
We stood just feet apart,
But she never seen me at all.
